What is the Centre for Public Dialogue?

We promote a positive voice of Christian faith in Canadian public life that seeks justice, hope, and reconciliation in political dialogue and active citizenship. Thanks to your support we are able to offer workshops and to support you in connecting with your Member of Parliament on pressing issues of the day.

Lent has its origins in the forty days Jesus spent fasting in the wilderness. On this first Sunday of Lent we may also find ourselves tested and stretched in a wilderness where justice and shalom are absent.

Lent gives us space to grieve the many injustices that we see in the world. Praise God that we are not left in Lent but we are also a resurrection people. Christians are blessed and called to participate in God's story of redemption and restoration - the patient, everyday journey towards justice.

The Centre for Public Dialogue's latest workshop will help you to explore how the Bible talks about peace, justice and faithful action. You'll learn about how exploitive structures cause injustice, explore how advocacy can bring change and healing when injustice has been done, and be introduced to practical steps to bring justice and shalom to your local contexts.

What points of interest will you uncover as you journey the map of justice in your community?
